

Re-opening the World

Life after COVID-19

The COVID-19 pandemic will have lasting implications on healthcare. We expect to see...

Digital health technology will become the norm, with rapid adoption of wearable health technologies

Use of online medical appointments and advisory services will increase

Medical supply chains will increasingly be localised to ensure quick and easy access

The mental health aftermath of the pandemic will last longer than the pandemic itself

These predictions come from Futurologist Ray Hammond, commissioned by Allianz Partners to look at how the world may be in 2021.
